An Incident.—Some days ago, it was gossipped that the suite of Santa Anna was in town, en route from Mexico to-nobody knew where. It was a mistake, however, as the hero of St. Jacinto did not come this way after his abdication. Yet the rumor served to recall an incident which was related to us, as having occurred during the Mexican nero's former exile. The name of the city where it occurred we have forgotten, but the main tacts are about as follows: It was at the theatre, and are about as follows: It was at the theatre, and Santa Anna occupied a conspicuous box. The play was interesting, and the main characters were played by first rate actors; yet very tew persons paid much attention to the performance. All eyes were ed Mexican, and opera-glasses leveled their volleys of wonder at him, and seemed untring in scanning nis features. Among the audience was a young man who seemed a stranger, and whose gaze was revetted upon the object of general attraction.— There was in his face an expression of great anxiety, and he appeared restless, ever and anon changing his position, yet ever resuming the earnest scrunity. After the conclusion of the first piece, Santa Anna, surrounded by a number of gentlemen and friends, was standing in the promenade o the theatre, when the young man before spoken of was observed to walk towards them. When within a few feet of the crowd, he suddenly drew a knile, hurried through, and grappled the one-leg-ed General by the throat; but before his weapon could descend to do its work, his arm was stayed and he was dragged away with much difficulty from the spot. When questioned as to the reason for his singular conduct, he said, with great vehemence: "He murdered my father at San Jacinto, menco: "He murdered my father at San Jacinto, and I have sworn, il ever opportunity offered, to avenge his death." The tone of feeling with which ho uttered these words, elicited the sympathy of the bystanders, who, instead of having him arrested, helped him to effect his escape. Remem-bering this incident, we were toroibly impressed with the idea that Santa Anna is altogether too cunning to attempt the tour of the United States, or any part of them. There are too many "wild Americans," who yet remember vividly and distinetly the scenes of San Jacinto and the Alamo St. Louis Republican, 10th. FREAKS OF AN INEBRIATE. - Yesterday after FREAKS OF AN INERRIATE.—Yesterday afternoon, a humorous individual who had raised his spirits up by pouring spirits down, perambulated Broadway, amusing himself by punching every one he met in the "portmanteau" with an umbrella, swearing that there was nothing like percussion tor diagonosing diseases of the chest. Seeing a very portly person approaching, he braced himself rest. As soon as the unfortunate fatty came with in reach of his unbrelliflerous weapon, he gave nim a regular sockdolager, just under the short ribs, which would have doubled him up like a two foot rule, had he been a lean man, and susceptible of the operation; as it was, it brought him up with a grunt like a northwester on a bender. The huthe sound, that his lungs were diseased, and that ne was going into a decline; but, alas for human gratitude, so lar from rendering any thanks to his times, each thrust followed by a crimson stream, which greatly marred the beauty of the gentleman's immaculate white pants. The sight of the singuineous fluid appeared to change the current of his thoughts entirely, and to put him in quite another vein. Both he and the lat 'un appeared produgiously frightened, and each made tracks in opposite directions, as fast as their respective propeilers could carry them. The knile need was a small and dall exist instrument and the result of the countries. mall and dull pocket instrument, and the wound inflicted hardly reached benoath the skin.

he was paying attention to the girls, he could not raise courage enough to pop the question, though ne tried to do so a dozen times, and would have ueen a lonely, dispirited old bach, troubled with the blues and hypothondria, had not his amiable come to the rescue. For the benefit of throbbing dinner ho went. The good things were all dished up, and the party drew around the table. Mrs. R. nastened to do the agreeable, and all went on nicely until the last course, when Jollybones noticed his angel missed something.

"1'ray, dear, what shall I help you to?" said Jollybones.
"I really don't know," then glancing towards the head of the table, she added, "mother, do you think a little marriage coremony would hurt me?"

But before Johnsones had turned his eyes towards "mother, had arisen and was going to the kitchen for another pot of tea. That night the marriage ceremony was dished up to the mu-

The late Mr. William Fry, whose death was briefly referred to yesterday, was a gentleman to whom the public owes some little depth of gratitude for the part he has taken in promoting the cause of general education. In alluding to the last yesterday, we spoke of his connection, at the beginning of the present century, with Robert Vaux, James Barclay, and some other young men, in laying the coundation of the hirst public school in Pennsylvania. In this allusion there was a slight error; for, however distinguished Mr. Vaux and Mr. Barclay have been as friends of public education was sold to the contractor of the Button. dentist kept them in a glass case. The Maine Law has been the chief canse of embarrasement. It evidently has nothing to do with National politics, and should not be a party question. Our opinion of all such laws is, that they are anti-republican and despotie. We like temperance, but not well enough to take despotism for its sake. If we have an evil of such magnitude that better remain. The remedy is worse than the discase. We should treat this temperance fanaticism the same way. If men will grow crazy and enact preposterous laws to stop the manufacture and sale of liquor, we should not sacrifice greater objects to oppose them. Let them go shead. They will quit when they are done, and find they have done ne good.

It is disgusting to see drunken political brawlers yelling for temperance, and a demagogue riding the hebby of a prohibitory law with a bottle of whisky in his pocket. It is no nucommon occurrence to find plently of bottles and demijohns full of the troyed. "critter" where the most stringent laws exist. Such things inspire a contempt for legal authority that does more harm than they can possibly do

We are rejoiced to see the Democracy of Maine probably in power again. The State will now have some rational legislation. Besides, this Republican party is beaten. It is the ultra, fanatical, anti-slavery, Knew-Nothing agglomeration of political heresies. It is no matter whether every thing is righted or not, men of sense and moderaof the helm, and we can hope for better things.

We shall look now with some euriosity to old Massachusetts. The age of miracles is past, perhaps, but the stapendous follies of the last Legislature of that State may wake up the Yankee nation. It is a great nation when ic is np-great in folly and great in wisdom. Who knows but the liave some sense and manliness about them—who will not go nosing about into nunneries or burning witches. These Bay State Yankees, when wrong, get as wrong as the very Devil. Let's see them get right, and see how right they will be. They emptied the tea once into Boston harbor. THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1855.

The elections in Maine have turned out better than we anticipated. The polities of that State have been in confusion for several years—distracted by ism's of State, but not National, importance. The Abolitionists (now the Republican party) have, with their usual adroitness, availed the section of the property of the Journal of Tuesday: Sonora, August 13, 1855.

Yesterday morning Sheriff Phonix, of Amador county, and Clark, of Calaveras, with a posse, passed through this place on the trail of some eight of the Amador robbers. Upon arrival at Salvada, a Mexican camp near Chinese, they enit can only be eradicated by despotic laws, it had better remain. The remedy is worse than the disparty met them at the door, and a desperate fight ensued, in which Wm. A. Phoenix, Sheriff of Amador county, was killed, and two or three Americans wounded, but not seriously; two or three Mexicans were killed and a number of houses burned. The Mexicans fought like tigers—using a revolver in each hand.

The remainsef Sheriff Phoenix were brought to this place last night, and are to be interred to-day at five o'clock, by the Tnolumne Lodge of Masons.
morning at daylight, in hopes of capturing the robbers, who are still at large. Great excitement exists, and it is very probable that before night every Mexican camp in this vicinity will be des-

PARTICULARS OF THE MURDER OF SHERIFF PHENIX.—A correspondent of the State Journal, writing from Sonora, under date of Angust 13th, gives the following partienlars of the murder of the Sheriff of Amador county.

Sonora, Angust 13-1 A. M. Mr. Phoenix, Sheriff of Amader county, has just been brought into town, dead—having been shot through the heart by a Mexican in El Salvado, a small camp about a mile from Chinese camp, in Taelamae county. We have also just received a letter from Sheriff Clark, giving the particulars of the melancholy affair. It appears that the Mexicans were followed through the country into Tuolumne, at a place known as Old Chinese Camp, where the officers arrived about noon on Saturday—took possession of the camp, and arrested every Mexican for ex-amination—but Americans who live there declare camp, and were not away from it at the time of Rancheria tragedy. The letter adds, "that a more villainous looking set were never seen."

A division of the officers was made here—some of them going over to an abode house, the balance remaining to keep strict gnard over the camp. A Mexican, who rode into town as the party

Maine has set a glorious example, let Massachnsetts emulate it. The N. Y. The second was supposed dead, but after all had passed, he arose and escaped to the chapperal. The third was discovered secreted in a tent, firing when any one approached. This and the adjoining tents were fired, when he rushed out with a revolver in each hand, and continued firing until we clubs until he was killed. Phonix will be buried this afternoon with Masonic honors. At 5 o'clock we start again in pursuit of them. We are determined to be in at the death of the wounded Greasers. The country is in arms.

PARTICULARS OF THE MASSACRE AT RANCHERIA. It appears, says the State Tribune, that a party of Mexicans and Chilenes, who have long infested that part of the country, made an attak upon the town of Rancheria, butchering the inhabitants in cold blood. The number of dead and wounded are not given, but one of the stage passengers averred to have seen five men and one woman, who had been brutally murdered. Although our information comes from a source entitled to credit, we hope, for the honor of humanity, it is not true. It is said the party passed through Drytown in the night, fring a volley as they passed through. They are pursued by the citizens. Should they be taken, a roasting alive would be too good for them. We are indebted to Wells, Fargo & Co. for the following information in relation to the matter:

JACKSON, August 7, 1855. We learn from Mr. Cross, from Drytown, that a party of Mexicans and Chilcans commenced an assault on the people of Rancheria, killing five American men and one American woman. Jeremiah V. Crane, armed with a Celt's revolver and a bowie knife, went to the residence of Benjamin Newnham, near Ringgold. Stopping at the gateway of the yard, he sent for Mr. Newnham's danghter, Miss Susan M. He responded, "Then die you mist," seized hold of her, and ascuffice that we have yet read. We give one statement at present, which could not be founded on rumor. The following was telegraphed to the State that his wife in the East had married again. He had told Susan that he would kill her and himself, and that they would live together in the next world; but she did not think I would kill her then; wounding Susan the pistel would not revolve, and he could not kill himself, and threw it away; a knife was rejected because it was rusty; and leeling sure of a rope, he returned to meet his fate.) Nobody knew I intended to commit the crime. Susan and I will be happy in the next world. I am over thirty years of age, and have four children near Lexington, Fayetto county, Ky., named Mclissa, Campbell, Jeremiah and Frank. John, the fifth, is dead. I think Andrew Jackson Davis' work the greatest in the world. As persons may be curious to learn the mode in which the marriage ceremony above alluded to was conducted, we copy the following statement of Miss Newnham: About one year age Mr. J. V. Craine commenced paying attention to me. There was no engageent between us, except the oath here filed, as "I now declare before high Heaven, and call God to witness, that I never will marry any one but you—not if all the world is against you. The door was immediately forced open, and the dead body of Mr. Barrott was found lying at full length upon the bed. From several letters found among the papers of the deeased, it was evident that he had taken poison on the night of his arrival in this city. The body particularly about his face and breast was already in a forward state of decomposition, and this facwarrants the belief that he had taken poison soon after reaching the apartment, and died during the after reaching the apartment, and died during the night. Among the letters there was one addressed to his ereditors, and mother, brothers and sisters, by which it appears that he was impelled to the act of suicide simply from a sense of elagin, eaused by a paragraph reflecting upon his character, that appeared in an inferior paper some days since. The deceased was the agent of Wells, Fargo & Co., at the town of Jackson, Amador county. He had always maintained a reputation for honesty and integrity, and enjoyed the entire confidence of his employers. The letter addressed to his family is written in very affectionate terms, o his family is written in very affectionate terms and describes his suffering since the appearance of the paragraph alluded to, which charged him with meanness in pocuniary matters. The following letter is addressed to an intimate acquaintance of

he deceased; a gentleman of Jackson:

FRIEND DAN-I never shall see you again. Alhough with a slight fancy for banking business, thought I was safe. Wells, Fargo & Co. con-idered me honest. Tell all my friends that to this day, I am too weak to write more. I'll see you in Heaven. I have assigns in the store for what I owe. If prudently managed, there is enough to pay all debts and more to boot. This may be a rash act-still I shall never have any cace while my friends placed so much confidence

Why Females Suffer in Health. THE MARRIED WOMAN'S

Private Medical Companion. BY DR. A. M MAURICEAU, PROFESSOR OF DISEASES OF WOMEN.
One Hundreth Edition (500,000) 18mo., pp. 250.

A standard work of established reputation, found class-ed in the catalogues of the great Trade Sales of New York, Philadelphia, and other cities, and sold by the principal hooksellers in the United States. Every woman can here discover, by comparing her own symptoms with those described the nature, character, and cause of her complaint, and be spared much anxiety and suffering, as well as the unpleasantness of making known to, or making inquiry of, a physician in respect to the numberless ailments to which she is sub-ject. The wife about becoming a mother has often need of instruction and advice in respect to her situa on, which she will here find. This book tells her wha is the matter, and tells her what to do for it, in simple but chaste words, and such as she can understand.

Those suffering from obstructions or irregularities

JEXTRACT OF A LETTER TOWN AS CONTROLLED TO THE MATERIAL OF A MAURICEAU—My Dear Str. My wife has been perceptibly sinking for some three years or more, in consequence of great anguish and suffering some months before and during confinement; every successive one more and more debilitated and prostrated her, putting her life in immlnent danger, and which was on the last occasion despaired of. I supposed that this state of things was inevitable, and resigned myself to meet the worst. I heard your book highly spoken of, as containing some matters reaching my case. On its receipt and perusal I cannot express to you the relief it aftoried my distressed mind, and the joy its pages imparted to my wife, on learning that the great discovery of M. M. Desomeaux provided a remedy. It opened a prospect to me which I little conceived was possible. But for this, creanother year would have passed over my head, in all human probability my wife would have been in her grave and my children left motherless.

Heal the Sick.

Men of liberal education at the present day devote a heir talents to discover the means whereby they may remove those painful maladies which assail the human frame. There is no nobler art than that of healing the sick, considering the numberless diseases to which man s liable, and which may cause him to drag out a procacted life of distress, or suddenly cut him off in the loom of his existence and nsefulness. We should gratefully seize npon every means of counteracting their dreadful effects, or causing a removal of those clogs to happiness. In those cases where the Liver of the Stomach is the canse, we would highly recome Dr. Hoofland's German Birters, prepared by Dr. C. M.

You have no manners-not a whit! Light on my pudding, there you sit, As if you owned it every bit— The dish and all; But, faith, I'll give you such a hit, I guess you'll fall.

Down, there you go, plump in the butter! Now buzz and kick, and sprawl and spintter, You're welcome now to frisk and flutter, And bite-l'll risk ye; You're safe as drunkard in the gutter, Skin full of whisky.

Mind there, Miss Fly, what you're about-That pot contains no cream nor kront, And when you're in you'll find it out,
By strength of mustard. But, faith, I'm glad you took that route, And missed the oustard.

You should not bite young lasses so, Through stocking-holes about the toe-You know they'd blush before a beau, To stop and scratch it; And knowing that 's a tender toe, Please do not bite it.

Oh, for one cold December night, With stormy winds to fercely fight, Te drive these hateful plagues from sight,
Back to old Cairo,
Where Moses called them forth to bite
The host of Pharoah.

Under the Lindens. Under the lindens lately sat A couple, and no more, in chat; I wondered what they would be at, Under the lindens.

I saw four eyes, and four lips meet, I heard the words, how sweet! how sweet! Had then the fairies given a treat, Under the lindens?

I pondered long and could not tell What dainty pleased them both so well; Bees! bees! it was your hydromel, Under the lindans.

tain-General of the Island of Cuba, an officer in the sermy lost a bag containing a thousand dollars. He advertised it, offering a reward of one hundred dollars to the lucky finder for its restoration. An honest, unassuming man soon entered the officer's house, and delivered the talega. The officer observing the man waiting, said, "Call to-morrow: if I find all right I shall hand you the reward."

The call was made accordingly, when the poor fellow was tald, to his utter astonishment and characteristics. low was told, to his utter astonishment and cha-grin, that he had taken the amount of the offered reward out of the bag, and that he would get no remaind out of the bag, and that he would get no more. A few days afterward he was advised by a friend to go to the Captain-General. Tacon never failed to find a way to prevent an imposition, and was always ready to punish injustice. On hearing the complaint, the officer was immediately sent for, who, on being desired to explain, said that it was true that he had lost a talega (a thousand dollars in gold), and that he had offered a hundred dollars and the talt was the said that the had offered a hundred dollars and the factor was the fader heaf favorable terms. Sterlings, Demand Bills for sale in sums of one pound and type. who, on being desired to explain, said that it was true that he had lost a talega (a thousand dollars in gold), and that he had oldered a hundred dollars reward for its restoration; but that the finder had returned him the bag with but nine hundred dollars, and that he inust have taken out the promised head. "Oh" answered the Captain, "the bag that the gentleman brought to you contained but nine hundred dollars, and yours contained a thousand? So, so I see how it is—that hag cannot be yours! Go for it, and return it without delay." Remonstrance was useless. No explanation would be received, neither was the offer of paying the hundred dollars of any avail. explanation would be received, neither was the offer of paying the hundred dollars of any avail. The bag containing but nine hundred could not be the one that he had lost, for if the man had not been honest he would have kept the whole. "Return it, or the jail in five minutes." The gentleman went home rejoicing with his nine hundred ollars, while the other retained one.

EUPHONIOUS.-A Western paper has a fair correspondent, who rejoices in the sweet name of "Bell Billow." An exchange suggests the pro-priety of procuring a match for the lady, in a male contributor, who should be known as "Bill Bellow."

Latest from Norfolk and Portsmouth. DISTRESSING INTELLIGENCE. - The Baltimore on of the 10th inst. says:

Onr intelligence from Norfolk on Saturday morning, like that received on Friday, encouraged the cope that the hand of death had been stayed in hat afflicted and almost desolated town, but we regret to say that our letters which came to hand esterday, bring us most gloomy and distressing ecounts of the ravages of the epidemic. After a light abatement for a day or two, the disease apears to have increased in virulence, and on Fri-lay, it is said, claimed no less than forty victims, mong them some of the best citizens of Norfolk. In Saturday, too, up to 2 P.M., there were thirty-five deaths. This is a terrible mortality in such a educed population.

We deeply regret to hear of the death of our orrespondent, Richard Gatewood, jr., Esq., one of the editors and proprietors of the Norfolk Beacon. He was a gentleman of sterling character and fine bilities, and his daily letters to the Sun, since the numencement of the epidemic, have been universilly admired and copied by the press throughout the country. His attention had for weeks been given to the sick and distressed, and he had nobly braved the ravages of the disease from the begin-ing until a few days ago, when he was stricken own, and now follows to the grave his intimate riend, Mayor Woodis, his partner, Col.
